Concept Note

Discussions on globalization and its social, economic, or cultural spheres are no longer limited to experts or sociologists. Whichever side of the debate you are on, globalization is reluctant to turn anyone away today, even if they try to avert the debate consciously or unconsciously. You and I are all under the effects of globalization today, facing it day and night, willingly or unwillingly. This seminar will be an effort to view and study globalization from the perspectives of our younger generation.
